

Photo Gallery

Salt – the good, the bad, and the tasty

Kathimerini, 'K' Sunday Magazine, Issue 17, p, 40. September 2007.

Photo: Errikos Milioris, Kathimerini, 'K' Sunday Magazine, Issue 17, p, 39. September 2007.

The ancient salt lakes on the Greek island of Lemnos. The area is a Natura 2006 protected zone, and industrial production of salt is not allowed. During winter, the area offers refuge and food to thousands of flamingos. In the summer, local people wait until the so-called flower of sea forms, and collect it. Photo: Dimitris Michalakis / Kathimerini, 'K' Sunday Magazine Issue 17, p. 31, September 2007.

Workers mining salt in a salt mine in the Ayad area of Yemen. This salt mine has an age of at least 200 years. Photo: G. Steinmetz / Corbis / Apeiron (Kathimerini, 'K' Sunday Magazine Issue 17, p. 31, September 2007)

Kathimerini, 'K' Sunday Magazine Issue 17, pp. 28-29, September 2007.